Community Path Tour walkers views tracks behind Somerville High School.

By Lynn Weissman

Over 50 adults and several children showed up for the walking tour of proposed Community Path Extension this past Saturday, Sept. 25. Joining the tour were State Representative Denise Provost, and Somerville School Committee members Paul Bockelman and Mark Niedergang.

This 2.5-mile gritty-but-pleasant, backstreets urban adventure was led by Joel Bennett, Alan Moore, and Lynn Weissman, who are founding members of the Friends of the Community Path. The Friends group is working to ensure that the Community Path extension gets designed and built to connect four of the seven new stations of the Green Line extension, from the Path's current end at Cedar Street in Somerville to North Point in Cambridge. Other transportation/environmental groups (like Somerville Transportation Equity Partnership or STEP) and the City of Somerville have been supportive of these efforts.
